

In the 1970's, the USGS built Grover, the geologic rover, similar to the lunar rovers astronauts drove on the Moon. Grover was used to train astronauts in the Cinder Hills area near Flagstaff, Arizona. Grover is still used today for testing new equipment designs.